SCHOOL BLAST TOLL STANDS AT 42 TODAY

Maniac's Wife Victim of His Madness Prior to Explosion

BULLETIN
Lansing, Mich., May 19—(AP)—Governor Green late today offered to pay funeral expenses of school children killed at Bath yesterday whose parents cannot do so.

Bath, Mich., May 19—(AP)—Mrs. Andrew Kehoe, wife of the maniac who yesterday blew up the consolidated school here with a loss of 42 lives, his farm home and himself, was his first victim. Portions of her body were found today in the ashes of one of the outbuildings of the Kehoe farm. Her skull was crushed.

With 36 school children, who yesterday romped through its streets, and five adults lying still in death, this village of 300 was just beginning to comprehend the full horror of the maniacal dynamiting. Forty-four others were seriously injured.

Only a whim of fate or accident prevented destruction of the village. Had Mined Basement.

Investigation showed that Kehoe, treasurer of the school board, angered because of a school tax levied against him, and nurses his mind to the erection of the building three years ago, had carefully mined the basement, installing an electrical circuit connected with a time clock. His plans seemingly called for destruction of the entire structure with its more than 260 pupils and instructors. But wires became short circuited and prevented the killing of more than 150 more pupils in another part of the building.

There were three explosions. The first occurred early yesterday at Kehoe's home, a mile west of the village, destroying the house, barn and wagon sheds.

The second blast in the school building came shortly after school opened. The third blast was in Kehoe's automobile in front of the school about 20 minutes later.

Killed in His Car.
Kehoe was sitting in the car. Emory E. Huyck, superintendent, was talking with him, one foot on the running board. Glenn O. Smith, village postmaster, and Nelson McFarland, an aged man, were on the sidewalk a few feet away. Suddenly a terrific blast came from the machine. Kehoe and Huyck were blown to bits. McFarland was killed outright and Smith so badly injured that he died. Kehoe's car was torn to pieces. Part of it was wrapped around a telephone pole 15 rods down the road.

The other adult killed was Hazel Wetherbee, an instructor. According to Charles Lane, state fire marshal, the wiring in the school was so well done that he was not sure it could have been installed by one person. Enough unexploded dynamite and powder was found to fill a small truck.

Concealed in Floors.
About an hour before the blast Kehoe, with Bert Detluff, the village blacksmith, and a member of the school board, inspected the building and reported everything was right. The dynamite had been concealed in the floors. Frank Smith, janitor, declared Kehoe seemed anxious to "get away."

Kehoe, a graduate of the Michigan State College, in opposing establishment of a consolidated school, claimed the structure would make school taxes burdensome. Recently a mortgage on his farm was foreclosed. His neighbors said he had a "nervous complex." He was always "blowing something up" around his farm. He was also an expert electrician.

Nailed to a tree in front of his house there as a rude sign "criminals are made, not born."

He Made Threats.
Mrs. Lawrence E. Price, widow of Mrs. Kehoe's uncle, who held the mortgage on Kehoe's farm, said that when she mentioned foreclosing he declared: "Well, if I can't live in that house no one else will."

All the pupil victims were of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades and ranged in age from six to fourteen.

Bernice Sterling, first grade teacher described the explosion as like a terrible earthquake. Most of her pupils escaped unhurt.

Outside the scene was one of horror and confusion.

Children were hurled through windows and over walls to light in the yard. Bodies were laid out in long rows, only feet showing. Mostly they were shabby feet, with soles worn through or shoes sizes too large. Mothers rushed to the scene and ran frantically up and down the line of feet. A scream and one would hug a limp form. Some of them, half crazed, clasped their dead children in their arms and ran home.

NEW LANDS NOW THREATENED BY SOUTHERN FLOOD

New River is Driving Thousands Out of Their Homes

New Orleans, La., May 19—(AP)—A new river, which army engineers estimated to be carrying much of the flood streaming through the Bayou des Glaives crevasses, was tearing its way through the Evangeline country today driving thousands from their homes. More than 7,000 already had been forced to flee from villages in the path the river was cutting to the sea.

Residents of the vast West Atchafalaya basin were gathering their possessions today and fleeing because of ominous flood warnings. Their homes are from 100 to 150 miles northwest of New Orleans. The section is on the route to the Gulf of Mexico expected to be followed by waters from the Bayou des Glaives levee breaks and torrents pouring through crevasses in the Atchafalaya river at Melville from which 1,000 men, women and children have departed. These floods converged forty miles below Bayou des Glaives. A lake 250 miles long and from 15 to 100 miles wide was created.

A sudden inundation of an additional portion of St. Landry parish was reported. More than 5,000 persons were estimated to be in the inundated territory.

Kelly Says Raymond Began Fatal Battle
Los Angeles, May 19—(AP)—Scenes were shifted today for the closing act of the Kelly murder trial in which the film actor is charged with having caused the death of Ray Raymond by a beating administered in a quarrel over the musical comedy star's wife, Dorothy Mackaye.

Kelly, on the stand yesterday, telling his version of the fight, was programmed as the last witness. He declared Raymond was the aggressor. Raymond he said, started the fight by accusing Kelly of living with his wife, calling his wife names and threatening to beat him.

HEROISM DROWNED TEACHER IS TOLD BY HIS STUDENTS

Stockton Mourns Hero and Girl Victims Picnic Tragedy

Freeport—Following a dramatic description given by Stockton high school seniors of Tuesday's tragedy at Krake Park when W. B. Geneva, 30, principal of the school, and Miss Margaret Miller, 18, a student, were drowned, a verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury here.

Students told members of the jury impaneled by Coroner Edward A. Diestelmeier that the girls were rowing the boat in which the principal was a passenger.

Orders Girls to Jump
Losing control of the craft when it approached the dam, they were ordered by Geneva to jump.

He succeeded in dragging Miss Alice Offenheiser, 17, Pearl City girl, to shore but Miss Miller failed to extricate herself from under the bars until after the boat had slid over the dam.

Swept to Death in Water
Professor Geneva dashed into the whirlpool in a vain attempt to rescue the student but both bodies were swept under by the terrific current.

The principal, a World War veteran and a man of powerful physique, was known as an expert swimmer and students advanced the opinion that he was a victim of cramps. Park officials, who recovered the bodies, said that it was humanly impossible for any person to swim through the whirlpool caused by the high dam.

Stockton in Mourning
The city of Stockton was in mourning today for its popular school head who had already accepted a contract for next year after two years of successful work. Professor Geneva is survived by his widow and a twenty-month-old daughter.

POLLUTION OF ROCK RIVER TO BE COMBATTED BY DIXON CHAP. IZAAK WALTON LEAGUE AT ONCE

Government Inspector to Visit Dixon in Near Future

The half million wall-eye pike wigglers secured from the government fish hatchery at Lincoln park, Chicago, arrived Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and were placed in Rock River at once. President Louis Kiel and a force of members of the Dixon chapter of the Izaak Walton league met the truck, which was taking to the north side athletic field, and from this point the wigglers were placed in the river just below the Illinois Central railroad bridge.

The Dixon chapter is extremely fortunate in having been able to secure a consignment of these game fish and it was made possible through the co-operation of William J. Stratton, director of the Illinois department of conservation and the management of the government hatcheries in Lincoln park. Almost a million fish have been placed in Rock river and tributary streams within the past 30 days through the activity of the propagation and restocking committee of the local Izaak Walton league chapter and their program of for additional consignments to the streams in this vicinity during the summer season.

To Fight Pollution
A meeting of the local chapter was held last evening at the Elks club at which time several matters were discussed. With the stocking of Rock river at this point, it was unanimously voted to wage a war against stream pollution and a government inspector will be in the city in a few days to make an investigation into conditions which have been reported as being detrimental to the fish life generally.

Names of 25 residents of Lee county were submitted to Director Stratton at Springfield to be sworn in next week as special deputy fish and game wardens. These men from all parts of the county will serve without compensation in enforcing the state game laws, and if necessary the number will be increased to fifty.

At the meeting of the chapter last evening, a vote of thanks was tendered Judge William L. Leech, chairman of the propagation and restocking committee and the associate members for their activity shown in securing many thousand fish for Lee county streams. A vote of thanks was also extended to Vernon Schrock, former secretary of the chapter, who volunteered his services yesterday and brought the truck load of a half million wigglers from the Lincoln park aquarium.

BERTAUD "FIRED" BY LEVINE AFTER ALL-NIGHT PARLEY

Will Not be Permitted to Make New York-to-Paris Journey

New York, May 19—(AP)—Lloyd Bertaud definitely will not make the Paris flight in the Hellana monoplane with Clarence Chamberlin, and his successor is already selected, Charles A. Levine, head of the company backing the flight, said today. The announcement came some time after an almost night-long conference at the end of which Bertaud had said that difficulties had been ironed out and that he would participate as originally planned.

"Bertaud is not going," Levine said. "That is definite. His successor has been selected, but his identity will not be revealed until the plane is ready to hop off."

Levine said Frank Tichenor came to his house early today bringing Bertaud and G. M. Bellanca, designer of the plane.

Bertaud is "Fired"
"Bertaud repudiated statements attributed to him in the press and attempted to consult me, but I told him he was definitely out," Levine said. "He offered to withdraw the injunction suit he started against me if I would let him go, but I rejected his offer."

Preparations went forward today to enable all three planes to take off for France when weather permits.

This morning the giant Fokker "America" in which Byrd, Noville and Acosta will fly for Paris, was put into the air. Because of adverse winds, the flight was merely a 15 minute speed and instrument trial.

Gusty Winds and Rain
Both the "Columbia" and Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" remained in their hangars. Lindbergh being ready to leave upon the weatherman's signal, and Chamberlin and Bertaud resting after their night-long conference.

A gusty wind drove a drizzling rain before it this morning, but weather reports indicated gradual clearing was taking place on the route to France.

It was hoped that by tomorrow, all would be ready for the hop-off, but announcement of the christening of the "America" Saturday, indicated that the hope of a getaway before that time was dim.

Dixon Woman Was Attacked by Dog
Citizens in different sections of the city are complaining of the many dogs running at large. They should be kept at home. In some instances ugly dogs frighten children who are forced to walk in the street when passing certain homes. There are altogether too many canines without collars in the city.

This morning Mrs. Paul Brooker stepped into her yard to pick a few pansies, when a large airedale lunged at her and she just reached her door and got inside to avoid an attack. This dog is an ugly creature and has to be muzzled at home and was running loose this morning. Citizens should not be subjected to treatment of this kind and steps should be taken to abate the nuisance. Food set on porches to cool is stolen and distributed all over the premises. Covers on garbage cans are forced off by large dogs and the contents spilled. The dog nuisance should be curbed in Dixon.

Plans Valuable Awards to Two of Graduates
In the window at the Tein Jewelry store is the dial of the enormous watch of clock with the names of the girl graduates of Dixon high school around the outer edge and the names of the boy graduates around the inner edge, there being more girls than boys. No doubt this window will be the most popular in town for the next week.

The black invading force, landed today, but has been hurled back, divided, and now occupies a hopeless position, Major General Brown, commander of the blue forces in the war game announced. "Without support from its fleet, outnumbered in infantry and subjected to artillery fire, the landing force of 20,000 men might be annihilated, he believed."

Striking in the dark, the black fleet in the war game bombarded the coast early today and landed more than 20,000 troops. The enemy has established a front from Warrey's point at the tip of the shore line on the east side of Narragansett Bay to Clarks Cove on the outskirts of New Bedford, Mass. Smoke screens were thrown up to hide the enemy movements from the defenders. After the enemy warships had begun shelling the forts, the troops were landed off Buzzards Bay.

FIVE KILLED, MANY MISSING, 350 HOMELESS

Central Illinois Suffered Greatly in the Terrific Storm

Peoria, Ill., May 19—(AP)—Hundreds of searchers in boats today were seeking the bodies of five persons believed to have been drowned in a storm that swept this city and vicinity late yesterday. More than 250 persons were forced from their homes and thousands of dollars damage done to property by a cloudburst and hail storm.

The rain fell in such torrents that five and one-half inches were recorded in three and one-half hours. Crippled telephone service hampered a checkup on the extent of the damage both within the city and in outlying towns. However word came from Chillicothe that a heavy rain fell there.

Peoria, Ill., May 19—(AP)—With five lives believed lost, scores of persons missing, more than 350 homeless, and approximately a million and a half dollars in property damage, Peoria today was recovering from one of the worst cloudbursts and hail storms in its history. More than five and one-half inches of rain fell between 2 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Telephone communication with all outlying districts is demoralized and reports of damage from all rural quarters are unavailable. East Peoria seemed the hardest hit. Four are believed dead and most of the missing persons are in that district. The main thoroughfares of the suburb are shattered and strewn with wrecked automobiles and debris. Two school houses are badly damaged. The recently installed costly fire department was demolished. The large manufacturing companies plants are flooded.

Water in All Streets.
In Peoria water was running in both the bluff and downtown streets as high as five feet.

Many employees waded to their homes through water almost hip deep. Thousands of basements were flooded.

Hail as large as hen's eggs fell during the afternoon, causing enormous damage to trees, houses and residential windows. Tops of automobiles were ripped. Railroad transportation was practically at a stand still early today. Bus lines in many directions were tied up. Concrete bridges were washed out on three hard roads. Water covers the Peoria-Canton and Peoria-Pekin hard roads.

Big Damage at Pekin.
At Pekin more than $50,000 damage was done when a wind of cyclonic proportions swept through the city.

Walter Mueller, son of Mayor Mueller, superintendent of the La Marsh Coal Co., and a companion were caught by a wall of water 15 feet high sweeping down the La Marsh Creek Valley. Mueller's body had not been recovered up to an early hour today. His companion, Lester Jones, 21, is in the hospital here in a critical condition. He is an expert swimmer and was found several miles from the La Marsh mine in an exhausted condition.

INDIANA HIT, ALSO.
Indianapolis, Ind., May 19—(AP)—At least 45 persons injured, property damage estimated at $2,500,000, between 200 and 300 homes and several buildings wrecked and badly crippled, communication lines torn down, was the toll of a heavy wind and rain storm in Indianapolis and vicinity last night.

An eighty mile wind smashed huge display windows and disrupted electric transportation. Several buildings, including a furniture store collapsed. Two boys standing in the doorway of the store, were injured.

Three Trainers Killed.
A heavy rain swelled streams, flooded streets and basements and stalled numerous automobiles.

Three trainmen of the Big Four railroad were killed when a freight train ran into a creek near La Fontaine after a bridge had been washed away.

The storm swept into the eastern part of the "near-downtown section" where it caused most of the damage and injuries.

A gospel tent was leveled, many persons being injured. The Indianaapolis baseball park was also damaged.

GRANDPA AND ME

There are no better friends than grandpa and me.
But on a few subjects we do not agree:
Grandpa sleeps with windows closed tight.
I have mine open all through the night.
In the morning grandpa is tired from breathing close air.
I am full of pep and can run like a hare.

Grandpa don't brush his teeth that I see.
I brush mine each morning, yes sir-ree!
Grandpa laughs at me when I say, "I am going to the dentist to be examined today."
He says: "You don't look like a boy with the toothache to me."
I go to the dentist twice each year you see.

Grandpa never goes to the doctor when he is here.
I have a health examination once each year.
Grandpa waits until he is sick the doctor to see.
He would not get sick if he lived like me.
He eats potatoes, bread with gravy and meat.
Vegetables of all kinds and fruit, I eat.

Mother says when grandpa went to school.
No nurse came to teach them a SINGLE HEALTH rule.
So that is the reason why grandpa and me
On a few subjects do not agree.

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST—Sliced bananas and strawberries with cereal and cream, buttered eggs on graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Diplomatic pie, graham bread and butter sandwiches, fruit salad, rolled oats cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast leg of lamb, mint sauce, new potatoes in cream sauce, buttered peas and carrots, asparagus salad, pineapple sherbet, sunshine cake, milk, coffee.

The diplomatic pie is just a glorified arrangement of left-overs. It can be served in individual baking dishes or one large one. The housekeeper who manages her left-overs cleverly can afford better food to begin with than the one who wastes what is left after each meal.

Diplomatic Pie
One cup diced left over meat, 1 cup diced carrots, 1/2 cup tiny onions, 1/2 cup strained canned tomatoes, 2 cups mashed potatoes, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons milk, white 1 egg.
Combine meat, carrots, onions and tomato juice. Add boiling water to cover and simmer until tender. If the vegetables cooked they should be almost tender before adding the meat. Season mixture with salt and pepper and thicken with flour stirred to a smooth paste with a little cold water. It will probably take about 1 tablespoon of flour to thicken the liquid to the consistency of gravy. Season hot mashed potatoes with butter, salt and milk, and fold in the egg white beaten until stiff and dry. Put the meat and vegetable and gravy mixture into a buttered baking dish, cover with prepared potatoes and bake in a moderately hot oven until the potato mixture puffs and browns on top.

Legion Auxiliary In Regular Meeting

The American Legion Auxiliary, Dixon Post No. 12, met in regular session Wednesday afternoon in Legion hall. The attendance was very good despite the rain that poured steadily down.

The usual order of business was observed. The chairman of the hospital committee reported a fine attendance and a splendid amount of work accomplished at the all day meeting held last week in Legion hall. Some interesting bulletins from National headquarters American Legion Auxiliary were read. Initiation of the recently enrolled members formed a part of the business. The Dixon Unit gave ten dollars to the Red Cross Flood Relief fund.

The president asked that the members help with the work Memorial day, both at the court house to make the bouquets and with the school children.

The American Legion poppy will be sold as usual on the 28th and 29th of May. This is a growing enterprise, both as a means of giving employment to our disabled men and to raise funds for the support of the Legion service office.

"He told me he liked poppies best—I did not understand.
For roses then, and violets
Were blooming in the land.
He told me he liked poppies best.
Then one day while I stood
Near the trees of Belleau wood,
I saw a field of poppies stir,
All radiant, wet with dew,
I thought of him—who died for France—
Oh, I like poppies, too."

Mrs. Pearl Reynolds has given to the unit about 40 rolls for a piano player. These will be sent to the Great Lakes Hospital, where a new player piano has just been ordered for the recreation room.

The delegates to the State Convention at Joliet will be elected at the next regular meeting of the auxiliary. The social committee served delicious refreshments and a social hour was much enjoyed.

TRIANGLE CLUB MEETING AND PROGRAM TONIGHT—
The Triangle club of the Christian church will hold a short meeting and program, followed by a social tea this evening at the Christian church at 7:30 o'clock. The short meeting will be followed by an enjoyable program with special numbers and the tea and social hour to conclude a happy evening. All members and friends of the church are invited, especially the other missionary societies of the church.

Held N. W. University Alumni Meeting Here

The Dixon Alumni club of Northwestern University, met for the annual candle lighting service at the Hotel Dixon, May 18th, with twenty-one members present. Mrs. O. W. Westgate and Mrs. C. Bishop played violin and piano charmingly during the dinner. After this, the candle lighting ritual took place with Rev. Carlson as officiant.

The candle of the past was lighted by William Haefliger, that of the present by R. C. Eovey, and that of the future by Miss Martha Shippert. Dr. L. R. Evans, the president of the organization, gave an interesting account of the progress of the university and its various departments. He emphasized the debt owed by the alumni in preserving the traditions and maintaining the lofty standards of Northwestern.

The oldest alumnus present, Dr. Albert Burr of the class of 1877, gave an excellent talk on the changes of the past 50 years, and made the prediction that Chicago would become the medical center of the world.

Due to the loyal efforts of Dr. Evans who provided the music and planned the program, the meeting was very successful.

The officers elected for next year are, R. C. Eovey, president; and Dr. W. J. Worsley, secretary.

Mrs. Barron in a few well chosen words during the afternoon presented to Mrs. Ortgiesen a lovely gift, in token of affection from those present. The hostesses served dainty refreshments and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent by everyone in attendance.

Prairieville Social Circle Meeting Much Enjoyed

The Prairieville Social Circle held a pleasant meeting Wednesday all day at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Paul McGinnis overlooking the picturesque Rock River. The home was gay with lovely spring flowers, lilacs, tulips, etc.

There were present eighteen members and seven visitors. A delicious picnic dinner was served at noon.

During the business meeting it was voted to contribute five dollars to the Red Cross for the flood relief fund.

The entertainment committee had charge of the program which included a piano duet by Miss Martha and Miss Edna LeFevre and a piano solo by Miss Jean McGinnis, all of the numbers being enthusiastically applauded.

The day concluded with a pleasant hour of chat and the Circle adjourned until the next meeting which will be held in the Prairieville church in three weeks, notice of which will be printed in the Telegraph.

WORTH TRYING.

Too little attention, it seems to us, has been given the recent suggestion of French Foreign Minister Briand that the United States and France sign a treaty forever outlawing war between themselves.

Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent, points out that this suggestion has made little stir at our capital. Apparently it has made no more stir anywhere else in the country. Yet, to our way of thinking, it is a most excellent idea.

Now there doesn't seem to be any great danger that we will go to war with France, either now or in the future, whether this treaty be signed or not. This nation and France have a little misunderstanding about the war debt, and probably our mutual friendship has cooled considerably since the fraternal days of 1917; yet it would require a complication of a gravity at present incomprehensible to bring either nation to the point where it would want to war with the other.

That being the case, it might be asked, "Why sign a new war treaty, then? It isn't needed."

Probably that is true. But the treaty would be a "magnificent gesture"; and sometimes the right kind of gesture is an extremely weighty force in the affairs of the world.

For, after all, it is the intangible things that are important, even in so hard-boiled a realm as that of international politics. A scrap of paper may be rather insignificant in itself, but it may also prove a power of tremendous value in its influence on the minds of men.

To our way of thinking, this treaty would be such a power. It is certain that the United States and France have only the most peaceable intentions towards one another; why not, then, put that down in writing? Why not publish a covenant for the world to see setting forth that these two nations are forever pledged to an amicable settlement of whatever differences may arise between them? Who can tell what far-reaching effects such a step might not have?

For the signing of mutual treaties outlawing war has heretofore been the concern only of small nations. Suppose two of the largest and strongest nations on earth entered into such an agreement; is it not safe to say that the moral effect might be tremendous? And it is precisely in that sphere—in the catching of men's visions by a glimpse of a new order—that international peace lies, rather than in any complicated system of "guarantees," "alliances," balance-of-power flub-dubberty or the like.

At all events, it is worth thinking over. We would like to see the country give M. Briand's suggestion a good deal of thought.

OUR CANAL PLIGHT.

New battleships will be eight feet wider than locks in the Panama canal. Solution of the bigger battleship problem will be in completion of a Nicaragua canal. Westerners are inclined to oppose the Nicaragua project until they are given a waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic ocean. In this situation early action in favor of the St. Lawrence waterway is advisable.

Battleships California, West Virginia, New Mexico and Colorado recently were taken through the Gatun locks for a test. Each had about five feet leeway on each side.

We have no ships now that can not pass through the canal, and several years will elapse before we will have ships too wide for the locks, but we are coming to that situation. Under the four-power naval pact we will be permitted to enter upon construction of battleships to take the places of the Wyoming, the Florida and the Utah, which will be regarded as obsolete, in 1931. Undersea torpedo defenses require greater width of beam, and new ships will be created along those lines. In 1932 we will be permitted to replace the New York, the Texas and the Arkansas.

British ships to be constructed also will carry beams too wide to permit of passage through the Panama canal.

Needs of interoceanic traffic were foreseen several years ago, and rights were obtained by the United States for a canal through Nicaragua. This is the route long contemplated in advance of the construction of the Panama canal. It was considered the most feasible.

The midwest feels the hardship created by the cheap water transportation through the canal, and it proposes to obtain a waterway to the Atlantic ocean as the next great project of the United States. When such an advantage is obtained, so that it may have some of the privileges of cheap waterway transportation, then it will be willing to join in building another Central American canal.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The hippo waded out; then swam and Carpy said, "How glad I am that Clowdy topped in this stream. It led to heaps of fun. It's just like being in a boat, and resting while we are afloat." And then the bunch took notice of the sinking of the sun.

Said Scouty, "We had better head for shore and shortly go to bed. We've had a lot of exercise and need a good night's rest." But not a Tiny seemed to know just how to make the hippo go. In any set direction, though they tried their very best.

Old Daftydoo just watched a while, and now and then he had to smile. In 'bout an hour he shouted, "Hey, there, hippo, come this way." The hippo turned around once more and promptly headed for the shore. And then the Tinsies said that they had had a wondrous day.

Back to old Dafty's cave they went and very little time was spent in crawling into cozy beds that felt real good to all. They slept real soundly through the night, and woke when it was broad daylight. They all jumped up for breakfast when they heard old Dafty call.

Around toward noon they started out, and saw a camel running 'bout. "Let's catch him," shouted Coppy. "There is some good way I hope."

"Why, sure there is," someone replied. "A lasso trick will now be tried." And thereupon old Daftydoo produced a lengthy rope.

"Oh, let me lasso," Scouty said. "I'll toss this rope right over his head. I hope he doesn't run too fast, 'cause I would be a wreck." The rope then sailed out through the air and Scouty's aim was very fair. In just one fling they had the husky camel by the neck.

"Churchill would either laugh at us or haul Hutchinson into court on a subpoena in regard to that threatening letter, and Hutchinson would know good and well that Churchill couldn't actually pin the letter on him. And it would tip him off that warrant Churchill's getting out a warrant for his arrest. No, let's wait and work this thing out ourselves, if possible. We've at least found Phil today and connected him with the writer of the threatening letter," Faith advised Bob.

"All right, sounds sensible to me, but let's stop at a soda fountain and get a sandwich and a glass of milk and then beat it back to the court-house. It's past one-thirty now, and good nature or your generosity, to gold-dig, as the phrase goes?" "She did not!" Bohn answered emphatically.

CIVIC ACHIEVEMENTS

BY DON E. MOWRY

Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Nothing is much more important to a city than good high schools.

In particular a good gymnasium, where the health of the younger generation can be kept at par, is important.

But in these days of rising taxes, good gymnasiums often remain in the thought of stage.

New Albany, Ind., has 30,000 people. It wanted a new gymnasium for its high school. It adopted a unique way to get it.

Preferred stock was sold by a "Gymnasium Corporation" in three days. This brought in $75,000—ample for the building. The stock will be retired by profits from the receipts of games and other functions held in the gym.

Discouraged by this New Albany decided to build a whole new high school plant. It now is doing it. The building will have cost half a million when finished and will be one of the most modern in the middle west.

Here is quite a record. A city much larger than New Albany might well hesitate before trying to build a $500,000 high school with a grade-A gymnasium as part of its equipment.

Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS

Speaking of souvenirs..... Late in 1918 there was a souvenir hound in the Gondrecourt area. He was a captain—but no names will be mentioned. His war record showed that he had been particularly active in the Paris-Tours-Blots sector and had been awarded several crosses for conspicuous gallantry in obtaining the billet with the highest bed and the softest pillows. So, when he went a-rummaging up along the front as most of the non-combatants did after the Armistice, he garnered in the souvenirs—ah, didn't he though! Plenty of them.

He expressed a particular fondness for the shell-casings of the French 75's, such a liking, in fact, that he brought back to the Gondrecourt area exactly 15 of these brass relics of the great guerre.

The "skipper" had two orderlies, one of whom is now a magazine writer in the United States. He carefully instructed them just how to "do up" his prizes. Each shell casing had to be wrapped in burlap, sacking and the whole was sewed up securely with heavy twine.

It required almost a day for the two buck private orderlies to complete the project. The captain was particular. And every stitch had to be just right. But the finish came eventually. And the captain handed one of his helpers (who wrote a good hand) a list of names and addresses to whom the 15 bundles were to be consigned.

Arriving, they bought and affixed the stamps. Then the orderly who wrote the "good hand" prepared to inscribe the names on the list the captain had given him. But as he primed his fountain pen for the assault he had an idea.

The he began writing. On seven of the packages he placed the names and addresses of seven very close friends of his own back in the States. On seven others he performed a like service for his buddy. They tossed a coin—a 5-cent piece—to see who'd get the fifteenth—the odd one. The Spencerian-inclined orderly won. It was addressed to another friend in Delaware Water Gap, Maryland.

This done, the packages were entrusted to the gentlemanly private of the A. P. O. The captain's list was burned. For years after the Armistice those two orderlies were dined and thanked profusely for their thoughtfulness. Their friends were appreciative. And somewhere in the States today is a captain who often wonders just what the hell ever became of those shell casings.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

Grandmother's Old Stone Cookie Jar

ONE of the things you love to remember is your childhood visits to Grandmother's old stone cookie jar.

I don't believe you ever were disappointed, for although Grandmother had to stand and roll and cut cookies she always found time to do it.

Today we have an easier, quicker way to make cookies than Grandmother had. The cookies for which recipes are printed below call for no rolling and cutting. I am sure they will gladden the heart of any child.

I make these cookies with Crisco and not a single person who has tasted them can tell them from cookies made with expensive butter. And as Crisco itself stays sweet and fresh so long it keeps these cookies fresh a long time, too.

Nut Wafer Cookies

Sliced instead of rolled and cut. Use Crisco and see how easy it is to cream with sugar. Crisco keeps so long you can double this recipe and keep the rolls in the ice box a long time, slicing and baking as you need them. Grease your pans with Crisco and you won't need to wash them between bakings.

1 cup brown sugar 3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup white sugar 2 teaspoons soda
1½ cups melted Crisco 1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt or other spices
5 cups pastry flour, 1 cup chopped nuts sifted twice (blanched almonds are best)

Cream Crisco with sugar. Add eggs slowly, mixing thoroughly. Add nuts. Then dry ingredients sifted together twice. Shape into roll about 2½ to 3 inches in diameter. Put in Criscoed pan in ice box overnight. When ready to bake, slice and bake in hot oven (425° F.). Makes about 75 cookies.

Grandmother's Old Fashioned Ginger Cookies

Made the new easy way—no tiresome rolling or cutting. Crisco is always ready for instant use and is easy to cream with the brown sugar. Grease your pans with Crisco and drop the cookies far enough apart to keep them round. Crisco saves washing the pans between bakings, so you won't mind using a lot of them.

1 cup brown sugar 1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup molasses 1 teaspoon salt
½ cup Crisco 1 teaspoon soda
1 egg, beaten 1 cup sour milk
4½ cups pastry flour

Cream Crisco, sugar and salt together. Add molasses and ginger, then egg. Dissolve soda in sour milk. Add, mix thoroughly. Last add flour. Drop teaspoonfuls of the batter on a Criscoed baking pan and bake in a medium oven (375° F.). Makes about 50 cookies.

(All measurements level)

Studebaker Commander set ten world records by traveling 5000 miles in less than 5000 minutes— BUT— What does it mean to You?

OF COURSE, you don't want to go 5000 continuous miles at better than a mile-a-minute. But this sensational performance proved by the most brutal test ever recorded, that anything an ordinary driver wants in speed and endurance, is child's play to THE COMMANDER.

33 Million Engine Explosions
To the ear, only a sound like the wind whistling through a grove; to the eye, only a fast moving bulk with contour dulled by its terrific speed... But within the six cylinders of The Commander's mighty engine, a fusillade of red hot explosions—over thirty-three million of them during the run! Connecting rods plunged upward and downward about eleven million times, wheels revolved over three million times.

Despite this ordeal, mechanical repairs were limited to three grease cups (damaged by hasty greasing) and a spark plug—negligible when you consider that this astounding performance is equivalent to 25,000 miles of ordinary going.

Let Harry Hartz—America's Champion Driver—tell you out of his own experience what a stock COMMANDER will do.

Figures Which Show the Strain of 5000 Miles in 4909 Minutes
Total of 30,000,000 explosions in the engine.
11,000,000 strokes of each piston.
9,200,000 feet, or about 1750 miles, traveled by each piston!
3,330,000 revolutions for each wheel!
This is what an engine must do to travel 5000 miles—but more than a thousand Studebaker cars have been driven 100,000 to 200,000 miles—and many of them are still in service!

Harry Hartz Says:

"It will maintain any given speed up to sixty-five miles per hour, longer, more smoothly, and at less expense per hour traveled, for gasoline, oil and repairs, than any other stock automobile now being built in the United States."

Because of its super-abundant power, The Commander will perform eagerly, easily, smoothly—with no labor or effort—any and all tasks placed upon it.

Studebaker has produced in these new models, cars which will excel even the staunch, dependable Studebakers of the past in low repair and maintenance costs. It is now possible to purchase a truly great automobile at a moderate price! The Commander is justly known as "the greatest post-war achievement in automotive engineering."

"No wonder the Big Six outsells the combined totals of all the other cars in the world of equal or greater rated power."

See It and Drive It Today!
An exact duplicate of the champion COMMANDER is ready for you and 'rarin' to go! Drive it yourself and draw your own conclusions. What Harry Hartz' Commander did, any Commander will do!

ANY FAMILY entitled to credit may buy a General Motors car and pay for it while using it, under the GMAC Plan.

When time payments first became an accepted form of car purchase, General Motors organized its own finance company, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, to make sure that the sale of its cars on time would be in the buyer's interest and that the finance charges would be fair.

GMAC rates have always been low; and the last reduction has saved General Motors' customers more than $12,000,000.

The General Motors line includes "a car for every purse and purpose"—a suitable model for every income. You can buy it out of income, paying no more than the cash delivered price, plus only the low GMAC financing charge. And the whole transaction is so conducted as to keep your goodwill and satisfaction.

MULLEN PLANNING BIG PROGRAM FOR SUMMER'S SPORTS

Outdoor Boxing Shows to Begin With Battle for a Title

Chicago—Promoter Jim Mullen is following the same policy as he adopted last summer when he opened the outdoor season with a world's championship bout. Last season, following the passing of the boxing bill, Mullen staged a lightweight title battle between Sammy Mandell and Rocky Kansas. This summer Jim will put on another world's championship fight to open the season, showing Mushy Callahan and Spug Myers, in a battle for the world's junior welterweight crown, May 31st at the Cubs Ball Park.

Mullen showed Mandell and Kansas at the White Sox Ball Park and has moved this season's opener to the North Side at the National League Park which has just been rebuilt and will seat 45,000 fans.

Callahan and Myers have been matched at popular request following their great battle last winter which was won by Myers after ten thrilling rounds. The verdict was a close one, most of the fans figuring a draw would have been fair to both boys.

Mushy openly states that he will knock Myers out in less than five rounds while Spug says nothing, preferring to say it with gloves.

Tommy Freeman of Cleveland, world's greatest welterweight will meet Myer Grace, local Jewish welter in the ten round semi windup at 145 pounds.

Benny Chavez, Mexican featherweight champion, will meet Joe Salas, former National A. A. U. 126 pound champ in a six rounder. Tommy Grogan of Omaha who beat Carl Duane recently will face Joe Medill, Chicago's newest 130 pound sensation in another six. Tickets are on sale at Mullen's Gym Ticket Office, 180 W. Randolph St. All out of town orders will receive prompt attention.

MATIMONY MATHEMATICAL.
Manilla.—Replying to questions as to whether he had brought any wives with him on his visit to Manila, Sultan Sa Massu, Moro dignitary of Lanao, said: "I have no harem. Too many wives multiply one's troubles, divide one's property and subtract one's felicity. One wife is enough for me and it was too much trouble to bring her."

Seen From Press Boxes in Major League Ball Parks

BY THE A.P.

Swift descent of St. Louis from second to fifth place in the National League drew attention today to a red hot struggle for second place by four teams.

While the Giants, like the Yanks, in the American, had a good hold on first place, the next four teams in the National were closely bunched.

The four were the Cubs, Phillies, Pirates and Cardinals who rank behind the Giants in the order listed. Between the first and last of this quartet 21 points intervened.

One defeat is enough to send one of the four down and that is what happened to the Cardinals when they lost to the Braves, 8-1 while Pittsburgh was trouncing the Giants, 13-6. Chicago was beating Brooklyn, 7-4 and the Phillies were idle.

A shakeup in the American League took place when the Tigers defeated Washington 5-3, and the Browns out-slugged the Red Sox for an 8-6 decision. The Senators sank from fourth to a tie with Cleveland for next to last while Detroit and St. Louis were deadlocked in fourth. Disputes with the umpires featured the Detroit game and one man of each team was banished for talking back.

Eddie Collins, now with the Athletics, was handed a wrist watch, diamond stickpin and a base on balls by his old teammates at Chicago before rain ended the game in the second.

NOTES—

Root held the Robins to six blows while he and his teammates combed eight from the deliveries of Bill Doak and Rube Erhardt.

Home run hitters showed considerable activity at New York. Wright and Traynor cracked four baggers for Pittsburgh and Farrell of the Giants slammed for the circuit.

Goose Goslin of the Senators is getting back into his hitting stride since re-entering the game after an illness.

The INSIDE OF THE BASEBALL

BY BILLY EVANS

1. Ground rules give batsman two bases on balls hit into restricted territory. Ball bounds out and batsman is retired trying for third on play. What is decision?
2. If batsman is hit by a pitched ball which would otherwise have gone over the heart of the plate, what is the ruling?
3. What was the ruling made by the major leagues some years ago relating to spitball pitchers?
4. Can a batsman be removed from the game for a pinch hitter at any time, regardless of the balls and strikes on him?
5. Two strikes have been pitched to an improper batter, when the mistake was discovered by the team at bat. What can be done about it?

THIS TELLS IT

1. Ball is dead the moment it goes into restricted territory. Batsman thrown out trying to make third should be sent back to second.
2. Umpire should rule it a strike regardless of the batter's actions.
3. In 1920 the ban was placed on the spitball delivery. Pitchers in the majors at that time, using it, were permitted to continue doing so the rest of their career.

4. Such action is permissible. 5. It is possible to "substitute the proper batter, the only penalty being that he take the balls and strikes on the improper batsman.

Rheumatism can't be rubbed away

Are you one of those unfortunate ones who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried most everything. Went to Hot Springs and finally I decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I also had a breaking out on my hands for years that nothing would heal, but now this has disappeared, and I am sure that it was S.S.S. which removed the cause. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best." Carl C. Campbell, 145 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS VON ELM IS GREAT SPORTSMAN, ALSO IS TEMPERMENTAL

Keeler Reveals an Inside Story of Chivalry on Course

BY O. B. KEELER

"When George Von Elm goes swaggering down the fairway," wrote a certain golf critic at Merion in 1924, "you can hear the saucer clink." "He looks like a handsome German ober-leutenant," wrote another reporter at Flossmoor the year before. "Von Elm is the amateur killer of golf," declared another.

All of which will give you an excessively wrong idea of the Von Elm personality, if you accept the statements literally and go no further into an acquaintance with George.

George has the reputation of a cold-blooded match-player in golf, but he is nothing of that. George may not know it, but he has temperament to a degree that really afflicts him. I've watched him in a good many championships. I've seen him lose some tough matches and I saw him win one of the very toughest, when he got to the top at last, at Baltusrol in September of 1923; when he beat his great rival, Bobby Jones, 2-1, in the final round of the national amateur championship.

Now here's a little inside story of that victory, which shows, oddly enough, that both Bobby and George were carrying an extreme load, though the light-minded view of the public had it generally that neither of the boys was under strain.

"Bobby," said the public, "has licked Von Elm twice by huge margins. He has George's number and he knows it. He'll win, easily."

"Von Elm," said others, "has nothing to lose and everything to win. He can go out and shoot the works with a clear conscience."

Now, I don't know what George thought, but I do know he was so nervous between rounds—he ended the morning round 1 up—that he couldn't sit still in the little private locker room occupied by George and Bobby and a dozen other players. He fidgeted about and finally went out.

Bobby, 1 down, was quiet and composed and chatting with people who came in. George was keyed to a million; and he finally came through in a gruelling match. And as to the theory that Bobby had George's number, I remember what Bobby said to me that morning.

"Nobody is going to keep on beating a golfer like George," said he.

No—there was a grim strain on them both, and George was coming right on his game and Bobby, after winning the medal and beating Evans and Oulmet, was a shade stale, perhaps. He played great golf; George played greater golf. That was the answer.

But the prettiest thing about the match was on the last two holes of the morning round. It reveals the boys as sportsmen, both; neither killers nor cold-blooded match-players.

At the seventeenth putt for a half and the great gallery began moving away. It was a missable putt, and George hesitated and stepped back from his ball; the motion had upset him. Bobby stepped forward and knocked the ball away; he gave him the putt. At the next green, Bobby had a putt of the same length for a half. The crowd was dead still here. Bobby studied the putt. George started walking across the green.

"Take it, Bobby," he said.

There was a certain illustration, in both instances, that the old spirit of chivalry is not dead. The Field of the Cloth of Gold never saw any thing prettier.

White Seeks Bout With Leonard for Charity

Chicago, May 19—(AP)—Charlie White, once a contender for the world's lightweight championship, dropped business affairs long enough today to challenge Benny Leonard, retired undefeated title holder, to fight any number of rounds at any time to raise funds for flood sufferers.

In 1920, White and Leonard fought at Benton Harbor with Leonard winning in the ninth after White had knocked him out of the ring. White wasn't satisfied with the result. He always insisted he could defeat Leonard if given another match, which never materialized.

MALONEY-SHARKEY FIGHT POSTPONED UNTIL TOMORROW

Bad Weather in Metrop- olis Caused Rickard to Act Today

BULLETIN
New York, May 19—(AP)—The 15-round heavyweight elimination bout scheduled tonight between Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey has been postponed until tomorrow night, Tex Rickard announced today.

New York, May 19—(AP)—Gene Tunney, heavyweight boxing champion, will be one of sixty thousand spectators tonight as Jack Sharkey, ex-golb and Jimmy Maloney, ex-doughboy, two of the foremost contenders for his crown, fight it out over the fifteen round route in the Yankee Stadium.

The battle holds special interest for Tunney for its winner is to meet Jack Dempsey in August for a title bout at the champion in September.

Man in the street and expert alike were hard put to pick the winner. Besides the prospects of $150,000 as his share, each of the Boston mailers has a fine chance for a bout with Dempsey, followed, if successful, by a match with Tunney with a fortune as the reward.

Maloney and Sharkey were confident, each in his own characteristic way. Maloney was quiet and purposeful; Sharkey loud and sure.

The prospect of rain was given due consideration by Tex Rickard, promoter, who announced that in that event the fight would be held tomorrow night.

Comparisons:

RACE BETTING BILL IS UP TO GOVERNOR NOW

Would Pay $700,000 a Year to State, Sup- porters Claim

Chicago, May 19—(AP)—Just a year from the time legalized betting returned to Illinois, the first bill to legalize race track betting since its abolishment in the eighties, was before Governor Small today.

At the same time counsel for H. D. Brown, California capitalist and sportsman, announced he had completed plans for a $2,000,000 race track to be built north of Chicago.

Chicago now has three tracks, two south and one southwest, besides the Aurora track. There are two other jockey clubs, in the state, one at Peoria and one at Fairmont near East St. Louis. The six now in operation have united under the name of the Illinois Jockey Club.

The measure before the Governor was introduced by Representative A. B. Lager. In the senate last night it was saved when Senator R. B. Swift cast the vote needed to give the bill a majority.

More than $700,000 a year will accrue to the state agricultural department under the bill, its proponents said.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

CHAPTER ONE The Locket

Killamau crowns the hills above the sea a good day's walk from Knockbotherum. Below, awash in the low tide, half a dozen fishing smacks ride perilously near to the black rocks of the shore line. The village looks to the west, and at sunset, when the sea becomes a meadow of golden red, the adventurous youth of Killamau dream dreams. In the heart of the sunset lies the rainbow gold of opportunity; beyond the horizon lies America. And since '48 the flower of Ireland's youth has sought and won laurels of prosperity and happiness in the land of Liberty.

The Irish Free State remains Erin, and the Irish still venture forth — carelessly, romantically, dreamily. Youth does not change with politics. Youth reads fairy tales in clouds and hears the call of other lands in the restless waves of the sea. Emmett Murtough was dissatisfied. He had outgrown Killamau, he believed. Little there was for him in this village in which his forefathers had lived and had died content with their lot, though the Lord knows there was never too much and not always plenty for their needs. This was not to be for Emmett Murtough. He would go to America, the land of plenty.

There were other reasons for Emmett's discontent. He had been the beau of Killamau. His blue black hair and his deep blue eyes, Sheila to forget. There was a dainty girl and a lively girl, a girl a man might be proud to dress in silks and satins when good fortune smiled. Pictures of American women in their fineries arose in Emmett's eye and he clothed Sheila in like apparel. He would send for her when he had won his place. Win his place he would; others who had gone before him had won riches; why shouldn't he? There was no doubt in the Murtough's dream.

Now Sheila loved Emmett Murtough, but she had no illusions as to his dreamy, romantic self. A practical girl she was with all her sweetness, and practical she had had to be, what with Old Tom to care for since her own dear mother had passed away. And him selling this and selling that until there was scarce a litter of pigs at pigging time and the potato vines empty at the roots and weeds a-running over all. All for what? A jug of the "crathure" to keep him in spirits! Old Tom mourned his wife; and well he might. It was she who had cared for the farm and who had brought forth from its soil the living for Tom and the little Sheila. Tom Kildare had been a handsome man and easy with the blarney. He would have made a great politician, so the frequenters of Mrs. O'Farrell's Inn had said with wise nods over their glasses. Had he not denounced with sentences ringing of ancient days the cruelty of England? He had indeed. But never did he venture forth in a fishing smack and his sturdy figure and the songs he sang—they had proved irresistible to half a dozen colleens who had hoped for a wedding ring. From Killamau to Knockbotherum the farmers' daughters along the way had heard his voice in the night as he tramped his way homeward. Many the pretty miss there was who had passed the time of night with this gay young devil of Killamau. And some of them bowed their heads now when he passed with his eyes straight forward and his chin in the air. There was gossip. Indeed and indeed young Emmett had no right to play fast and loose with the girls of the county. The old women knew and the fathers of moonlight-mad daughters began to hear and to wonder at the downcast eyes of their Marys and Annes. At the village inn, kept by the talkative Widow O'Farrell, there were murmurings. Emmett liked it not. Marriage to any of them was not for him. To be tied down, indeed, with a bit of land and a cow and a pig or two and the bother of "chilid"—no; it was not for Emmett Murtough. Over there, across the horizon, were riches and glory.

Of course, now, there was Sheila Kildare. What would he do about her? Sheila who laughed when he tried out his bag of tricks upon her and who looked up into his eyes with all the love of her young heart when he told of his dreams and wooed her as one who would give her the ring and the name. A brave little baggage was Sheila! As Emmett mused over his wooing of her he felt his cheek reminiscently. A strong girl with a temper! The sting of the blow she had implanted there that night when he had forgot himself—and Sheila—smiled now. How could such a girl be so old-fashioned, the Murtough wondered; wanting to stay in Killamau and fearing to go into the West; content upon the run down farm of the Kildares. A good piece of land it was and with right working could be made into a profitable holding. But farming was not for Emmett Murtough. Besides Old Tom Kildare did nothing any more. The weeds grew rank over his potato vines, and Sheila could not attend to it all. If the farm were in good shape even the Murtough would consider it, but it was not for him to slave and sweat in the field. Across the sea there was a man's chance, the road to riches. And Sheila—well, Sheila would forget.

Yet the Murtough did not want seldom was he seen with a hoe in his own fields. The fate of Ireland was nearest and dearest to Tom Kildare during his good years and now that the good years were on the wane it was too late. So Sheila carried the burden of the Kildare farm and cottage and all its content.

There are fairies in the deep woods of Killamau. Only the good at heart may see them but they are there dwelling at the roots of great trees and dancing upon lacy ferns in the silver moonlight. There is not a child born in the countryside but that the fairies foregather and upon the wee one confer the gifts of fortune. And, the more lowly the home the greater the gifts. It is the way of the fairies see far in the future; nor do they consider only the moment when the wee one first looks into its mother's eyes. The prosperous cottage of today may be the poverty but of tomorrow and the fairies, wise in their goodness, bestow their gifts as the child shall need them. Well they knew Tom Kildare and his blarney and who can say that they did not know that the good mother of Sheila would pass away and that Sheila must have courage and bravery and goodness to contend with life. These gifts they bestowed upon her, the blue-eyed baby who was now the active head of the Kildare home. Sheila dreamed of the fairies. But never had she known of their beneficence until that day of the Fair at Knockbotherum.

Not the oldest of the hundreds who attended the harvest fair at Knockbotherum knew of her origin, this wrinkled and weakened old woman who played upon the superstitions of her clients. The booth where she made her headquarters was one of constant awe for the boys and girls who would know their fate but who had not the pennies with which to question. Mother O'Reilly she called herself, but the country folk swore she was gypsy and they pointed credulous fingers at her shawl of many colors and the twisted red and yellow satin, weather stained and dirty, which crowned her grey head. Every year she came to Knockbotherum for the fair and many were the parents of grown children now who nodded at her as they passed the booth and recalled that day twenty years ago when she had foretold the love life that was to be theirs.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

by Anne Austin

© 1927 by NEA Service Inc.

His pale face was marked by the tragedy of that struggle.

THIS HAS HAPPENED. From his big department store, T. Q. CURTIS chooses three girls to come into his home as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further ambitions each has expressed. BILLY WELLS, anxious to be a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is sincere. The others—NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON—lie to enjoy the old man's generosity. Billy becomes infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of Mrs. MEADOWS, the hostess. Unknown to T. Q., the girls learn he intends to adopt one of them as his daughter when the year is up. Winnie and Nyda turn the house into a place of intrigue. Mrs. Meadows, Dal, who in spite of his engagement to Billy is "playing" Winnie, too, and EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's former sweetheart, are strangely implicated in the intrigues. One night, Nyda, who is ill, asks Billy to get her a book from the library. While there, Billy finds a strand of beads and the butler, SAWYERS, finds her sleeping before the safe. He misinterprets her actions. That night, she meets Dal Romanine in the garden, and as she steals back toward the house, she sees Eddie Banning creeping from Nyda's window. The next morning when it is found T. Q.'s safe has been robbed, T. Q. tells Billy the butler places suspicion on her. Terrified, Billy decides to tell CLAY, son of her benefactor, what she dares not tell his father. Clay has disinherited himself and is living at the Wells home in a poor part of town, working by day in a factory and writing music at night. Clay, who loves Billy, vows to help her and in a few days brings her to T. Q.'s library where T. Q., Nyda and Billy face him. He believes Nyda has double-crossed him. "We fine wife you are," he snarls at Nyda as she faints.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LII

"YEAH, my wife!" Eddie Banning snarled. "We got married after that party that this meddling old bird threw for his flock of pets, nearly a year ago. The next day when Curtis came across with that fool offer of his to give these three girls a home for a year, she so-called me into keeping my trap shut about us being married the night before. 'N then she goes and double-crosses me after she helps me take the old guy for a cleaning."

Clay stood guard over the snarling, cursing chauffeur while Nyda was lifted in T. Q.'s arms and placed on the leather-upholstered sofa.

"He made me do it," Nyda sobbed. "I've been giving him money all along to keep him from telling you I was married to him."

"I don't quite understand, Nyda, how you kept your marriage a secret," T. Q. said gently. "With all the publicity the 'Cinderella girls' have had—"

"Eddie had the license for several days," Nyda sobbed. "After the party he—he just made me elope with him. We drove over to Chatham, the county seat, and got married. Nyda Lomax ain't my real name—my legal name, Lomax was my stepfather's name—but my mother and I divorced now—but she married him when I was a little girl and I took his name. My real name was Beulah Owens. I hated the name of Beulah and I just—just made up Nyda, because I thought it was pretty. But our marriage license had my real name on it, to make it legal. After—after you asked me to come here and live, I begged Eddie to help me keep our marriage a secret, and he agreed. He wanted to get all he could out of you, too. He flashed a resentful look at her husband. "It was Eddie himself who went over to the county seat and clerked not to let the papers get a record of our marriage. That's all, and I've lived in torment this whole enduring year and I'm glad it's over. I'm glad," she screamed, beating her breast with a clenched fist.

Said certificate also shows that said work has been done and completed by the contractor doing the work in substantial conformity to the requirements of said ordinance and has been duly accepted by the board and its members.

The final cost of said improvement and the amount estimated for interest as shown in the certificate are as follows:

TYPHOID FEVER, MALARIA THREAT IN FLOOD AREA

Receding of Waters to Bring New Dangers to Many People

Springfield—A distinct danger from typhoid fever and malaria has developed in the flooded areas of Illinois from which the high waters have receded, according to a statement made here today by Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, State health director. Polluted water supplies and contaminated deposits of slime and mud provide the menace from typhoid, while new-made stagnant pools and swampy marshes that furnish prolific breeding places for mosquitos make up the hazard from malaria. Sanitarians are on duty in the districts most seriously affected but the big problems yet to be faced will require concerted efforts on the part of all relief agencies as well as the local public.

"The main danger from typhoid lies in private wells and springs subject to contaminated surface seepage brought on by the floods which have saturated the upper strata of the earth," said Dr. Rawlings, "and by polluted deposits of slime and mud which are not cleared away. Judicious use of chloride of lime or the boiling of drinking water will make the water safe but it is recommended that exposed persons be inoculated against the disease also in order to avoid the danger of infection from other sources."

"The innumerable pools and ponds of stagnant water left by the floods furnish admirable breeding places for the malaria bearing Anopheles mosquitos," continued Dr. Rawlings. "Breeding of these mosquitos in great abundance has already been discovered in the southern part of the state by sanitary engineers at work there. If these mosquitos find malarial persons to bite the possibility of an outbreak of malaria among the exposed population is great. Draining stagnant pools, clearing the banks of sluggish streams from the disease and the people had lost all immunity. Under suitable conditions which the floods appear to have left in many places, a similar recurrence might develop in Illinois where considerable groups have enjoyed freedom from malaria for some years.

"From recent surveys and careful estimates it appears that there are more than 16,000 malarious persons in southern Illinois. These provide plenty of material from whom the Anopheles may become infected. How wide malaria is apt to spread therefore depends upon the rapidity with which these mosquitos breed and pass the disease on to healthy people."
